CALL FOR PARTICIPANTS

University of Missouri – Kansas City
The Center for Full Employment and Price Stability
The Journal of Post Keynesian Economics

are pleased to host

THE SEVENTH INTERNATIONAL POST KEYNESIAN WORKSHOP

SUMMER SCHOOL: JUNE 22 – 28, 2002

CONFERENCE: JUNE 29 – JULY 3, 2002

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI

As students around the world have awakened to the empty promise of mainstream economic curricula, the University of Missouri – Kansas City, the Journal of Post Keynesian Economics, and the Center for Full Employment and Price Stability (C-FEPS) have stepped up to the challenge to offer a summer school program that provides an alternative. The School will provide a rigorous training in both the theoretical and applied aspects of Post Keynesian economic theory. It will also deal with meaningful prescriptive policies relevant to REAL WORLD phenomena and, in the spirit of pluralism, will provide a forum for intellectual discourse that spans a variety of disciplines.

The program is being organized by Professors Paul Davidson and Jan Kregel.

The Summer School

Admission is open to graduate students and recent Ph.D.'s. C-FEPS has offered to provide a number of scholarships that will cover student tuition fees and room and board.

C-FEPS will also make available a number of travel stipends that will cover a portion of the costs of travel to and from the workshop, if participants take advantage of advance airfare bookings.

SUMMER SCHOOL APPLICATION PROCEDURE:

Applicants should send four copies of:

- 1) Their CV,
- 2) 1-2 page statement of what each student hopes to get out of the Post Keynesian Summer School, and
- 3) a statement indicating familiarity with heterodox and Post Keynesian economics.

These materials will serve as the application for both the summer school and for the travel stipends. In addition, students will have the opportunity to attend the Post Keynesian Conference, immediately following the Summer School (at a reduced cost).

Please, send the materials to Pavlina R. Tcherneva at the address below. A committee of representatives of the Journal of Post Keynesian Economics and UMKC's Economics Department will screen all applicants and notify participants no later than March 15, 2002.

SUMMER SCHOOL APPLICATION SUBMISSION DEADLINE: FEBRUARY 15, 2002

The Conference

The Seventh International Post Keynesian Workshop will conclude with a four day conference, organized by Professors Paul Davidson and Jan Kregel. The format, theme, and topics will be similar to those of the previous six Post Keynesian workshops held in Knoxville. More details will be forthcoming very soon. Abstracts of paper proposals will be due February 28, 2002, and should be sent to Pavlina Tcherneva at the address below.

In 2001 UMKC hosted the Association For Evolutionary Economics summer school. The feedback was overwhelmingly positive, and we are working to make the Post Keynesian Workshop in 2002 a similarly successful event. We look forward to your participation and are convinced that you will find UMKC and Kansas City (with its world class jazz and R&B) quite an enjoyable place!
